I have al ways-borine art ihtire friendship to your father and -mother; and the person they have chosen for your hufcband hath beel, for some years past, my parti-c ular favourite.: I have long wished you might come together, because I hoped, from the goodness-of your disposition, and by following the counsel of. wise friends, you might, in time, make.yourself wortlw of hirn. Your parents were so far in the right, tltat they did not introduce you much into the world, whereby you avoided many wrong steps, which others have taken, and have fewer ill impressions to be removed; but they failed, as is generally the case, in too much neglecting to, cultivate your mind, without which it is impossible to acquire or preserve the friendship and esteem of a wise man, who soon grows weary of acting the lover, and treating his wife like a mistress,...
