Not illustrated. 1824 Excerpt: . . . see, there! see, there! the old witch Elise is sitting at the gate, and wont let the gentleman pass, because he has not given her groschen. n For the first time now I perceived an old beggar sitting, coiled up like a ball, in a corner by the gate, and with the grin of idiotcy on her features. Will the d--d witch not get out of the way cried the Judge. Hereupon the old woman croaked out, The bloody brother--the bloody brother has given me no groschen!--Do you not see the dead man there lying before him--The murderer cannot get over him, for the dead man raises himself up; but I will crush him down, if the bloody brother will give me a groschen! The Judge had taken the horse by the rein, and, not minding the old woman, would have led it through the gate. In vain, however, were all his endeavours; and the witch continued to cry without ceasing, Bloody brother, bloody brother--give me groschen! At last I forced my hand into my pocket, and threw her money. Shouting and rejoicing, she then started up-- See the groschen! cried she, see the groschen that the murderer has given me--see the beautiful groschen! Meanwhile my horse neighed aloud; and on the Judges letting him go, went curvetting and caprioling through the gate. Now, sir, said he, the riding goes on fine and admirably, according to all particulars! The bauers, who had followed me through the...
